SONOMA COUNTY

2014 Rosé of Pinot Noir

Vintage

Another season with a bountiful crop of amazing quality. The yields were slightly lower than previous. No heat spikes, rain or cold weather allowed the berries to develop intense varietal flavors. We experienced nice deep colors and supple tannins across the board.

Vineyard

The Sangiacomo Family is known for with high-end Pinot Noir in Sonoma County, and many wineries throughout the county, state source their fruit to make exceptional wines. We have always been impressed by the Los Carneros climate just South of town of Sonoma. So we were thrilled when a block became available in 2014 and we were able to add this stunning grower to our portfolio.

Winemaking

Our 2014 Rosé of Pinot Noir is composed of 100% Pommard Pinot Noir from Sangiacomo Vineyard. We chose a Saignée method to capture the essence of the Pinot Noir and fermented in neutral barrels, allowing the fruit to truly express itself.

Winemaker Tasting Notes

Light pink in color, with watermelon, cranberry, orange rind, and fresh springs flower aromas on the nose. The palate is loaded with peach, strawberry, and melon flavors, with an intriguing note of fresh basil and pomegranate sneaking through. Though packed with fruit, our Rosé finishes dry, with bright acidity and just a hint of tannin from the small period of contact with the grape skins. Drinking beautifully now, this will continue to develop in the coming months, and makes for perfect drinking through Thanksgiving (when it would make a lovely pairing with turkey). Time to stock up for summer!
